

"Total Disregard" for Speed Laws Revealed by Campus Spot Check

by Dick Oveson
UNIVERSITY Tuesday Editor

An almost total disregard for campus speed regulations was evidenced today as the campus traffic committee released first figures on a campus-wide speed check held last Monday morning.

One of the most shocking results obtained from the check were figures showing faculty members to be greater violators than student drivers.

In the area directly in front of the North building, eight out of fourteen faculty cars, or 57 per cent were observed violating the speed limit of 15 miles per hour. Average speed of faculty violators 20 mph, while student drivers who exceeded the limit averaged 18.75 mph. Student cars in this area broke the law 54 per cent of the time. Admittedly, figures in this area were held down due to the congested conditions existing at the hour the check was taken.

During the period between classes close to 30 per cent of both student and faculty cars exceeded the speed limit. Those that did not go over fifteen miles per hour were preparing to stop to let out passengers or to park in the lot north of the science building.

On the campus road leading from the north entrance to the campus to the North building, or to the parking lots, violations were frequent. Of the approximately 150 cars observed during the check, all were exceeding the 15 mph limit. Average speed on this stretch was 33 miles per hour, or better than double the established limit. No effort was made to differentiate between student and faculty cars in this area.

According to Claude Thomas, member of the committee and one of those making the check, a serious hazard exists at the entrance to the parking lots. Cars traveling at high speeds enter the traffic stream at this point and the possibility of accidents is high.

Hollywood Visit Ends Back Here

A delegation of seven men returned to Provo this week following an eight-day trip to the nation's film capital, according to Wetzel Whitaker, director of the department of motion pictures.

The group, who were to survey the procurement of new movie equipment, consisted of five men from Brigham Young University, and two men from Provo city.

From BYU, the research committee members were Whitaker for the motion picture department; Clarence Tyndall, representing AYU; Leon Dallin, music department; Leland Perry from buildings and grounds, and Glen Turner from the art department.

In addition, extensive technical assistance was given to the group by Harold Talbot from KOVC, and Arlei Davis from the Davis Lighting Company, Provo.

Itinerary for the trip included thorough visits through three major studios: RKO, Walt Disney, and MGM. In order to scrutinize the technical aspects of movie making, the men examined the process laboratories, and checked various types of cameras, lighting, and sound equipment.

An interesting sidelight to the trip occurred regarding accommodations. The reservations for seven were assumed by hotel operators to signify the coming of a basketball team. Dr. Whitaker was, therefore, accused of being the coach. He may be forced to change his nickname from "Judge" to "Coach" Whitaker, if the jests of the delegation prevail.

Social Hall Dance After Aggie Game

Don Toomey's orchestra will furnish the music for the "vic-tory" dance after the Brigham Young-Idaho State basketball game Saturday.

Scheduled for the social hall, the dance will start immediately after the game. Sports events will be in vogue for the afternoon.

Studentbody officers have set the charge at 15c single and 25c couple.

There will be no studentbody dance after the Brigham Young-Montana game Friday night.

ToKalon & Tausig Assembly on Tap

The student assembly Friday will be under the direction of the To Kalon and Tausig social units. The theme will be songs from the three Broadway hits of Rogers and Hammerstein, "Carousel," "Oklahoma," and "South Pacific."

Included in the fun will be dances, readings, chorus, and solo work. Scenery and costumes will be colorful and lend a festive air to the occasion.

Tossy Spivakovsky To Be Featured At Monday Lyceum

Tossy Spivakovsky, who is ranked with the four top violinists today, will appear in concert Monday at 8:15 p.m. in the Provo tabernacle.

Spivakovsky is credited with making some of the greatest technical advances in violin playing in modern times. Experiments dating back to the time he was 14 have equipped him today with a knowledge and control of the violin which is outstanding.

Born in Odessa, southern Russia, Spivakovsky was taken to Berlin at an early age to study violin with Arrigo Serato and the conference will open Saturday morning with a general session followed by smaller discussion groups. Discussion groups will be first on the afternoon schedule, with a general meeting ending the conference.

Between the morning and afternoon sessions a luncheon will be held for the visitors in the Smith cafeteria. President Ernest L. Wilkinson, Dean Wesley T. Lloyd, Mrs. Lillian C. Booth, and Dr. Royce Brulthwell have been invited as special faculty guests.

Primary purpose of the conference is to discuss studentbody problems that are common to all three schools. Inter-school relationships will also be hashed over with the hope of improvement.

Mr. Porter said Wednesday that he hoped this would be the start of an annual meeting between the student leaders of Utah, Utah State, and BYU.

Dramatists Set Ticket Sales For 'Papa Is All'

Tickets are now on sale for next week's speech department presentation of "Papa Is All," directed by Dr. Prosser T. Smith.

Students will be admitted on activity cards. Holders of season tickets may obtain tickets to "Papa Is All" with their season books, since the play is a regular part of the drama season, having been substituted for "The Great God Brown." Tickets may be obtained at the Smith Information Booth or at Heide's Music and Music Company.

The play is set for the Smith auditorium next Wednesday through Saturday with performances beginning each night at 8:15.

Dr. Gieddell called the play "one of the merriest and most popular comedies in the modern theatre." It is the story of a Pennsylvania Dutch family and centers around the rebellion of the mother, son, and daughter against the tyrannical Papa, a staunch Monmouth who misuses the traditions of his religion for his own purposes and suppresses the strong plebeian of everyday life for his family.

Cast as the tyrannical Papa is Carl Evans, John, and Emma, are played by Stan Porter, Tampico, Mort, and Pat Mann. Arnelia, Camp, and the cast are Julia Groberg, Idaho Falls, as Mrs. Yoder, the talkative neighbor, and Walker Bruce, Salt Lake City, as State Trooper Brendle.

Cage Tickets Go To Public Friday

Tickets in the student benches for the basketball games this weekend will go on sale to the general public Friday morning at 8 a.m.

Students have first claim on these seats, but must pick up their tickets by 5 p.m. Thursday.

There have been some violations of rules governing the sale of student tickets. To correct this, Eddie Kimball, director of athletics, has announced that all student activity cards without the picture of the cardholder will not be honored at the games. Also,

Educator, Vocalist Named To BYU Faculty Positions

Miss Jennie Campbell, state director of elementary education, has been named to the faculty of Brigham Young University as associate professor of elementary education, it was announced this week.

Named to the music department was Ray Leonard, who will teach a vocal class for instrumental majors, and coach private voice and group singing.

Included in Miss Campbell's duties at BYU will be to serve as acting head of the elementary training school during a leave of absence of Principal C. Manley Brown.

Educational activities of Miss Campbell have included the position of International President of Childhood Education, and the directorship of elementary education in Utah.

Formerly a member of the general board of the Primary Association of the Church, Miss Campbell received her B.A. at the Y, and the Master's degree from Columbia University.

Mr. Leonard studied music at the University of Oregon and received the Master's degree from Northwestern University. He received the License de Concert from the Ecole Normale de Musique de Paris. During the war he served in the United States Navy, after which he toured Europe singing leading roles in operetta. His career has centered in Paris where he has sung many concert, for radio and with symphony orchestras.

He was chosen to sing the songs of three of France's greatest composers, Berlioz, Poulenc, and Milhaud, in a concert under their patronage. He has the distinction of being the only American invited to sing French music at the French Institute in London.

For the past six months since his return to the United States, Mr. Leonard has been on the West Coast where he has appeared in concert, and coached extensively in German Lieder with the distinguished Lettie Lehman in Santa Barbara.

Monthly Forms Info Sought By Coordinator

Korean veterans attending school under P.L. 550 should contact Villa Olson, veterans coordinator, this week to fill out the required monthly forms.

Miss Olson said that checks from the Veterans Administration will be late, unless veterans file the end of the month statement. The veterans coordinator's office is in the basement of the Maeser building.

Also, all veterans under the old G.I. Bill of Rights, who have transferred to the Y, have changed their date of study, or have entered graduate school, and have received their certificates of eligibility from the Veterans Administration, should take them to Miss Olson.

The enrollment of veterans under the old G.I. bill has decreased winter quarter, while the enrollment of veterans under the Korean G.I. bill has increased. During fall quarter there were 618 enrolled under the old G.I. bill and 171 under the Korean G.I. bill. This quarter there are 567 enrolled under the old G.I. bill and 230 under the Korean G.I. bill.

PRE MED EXAMS SET FOR MAY

The Medical College Admission test for candidates to medical school in the fall of 1954 will be given in May. It was announced by the Association of Medical Colleges.

The MCAT will be given to candidates May 9, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country.

Application forms and a bulletin of information are available from Brigham Young University pre-medical advisers.

Vets May Interrupt Schooling For Mission Under New Bill

Senator Wallace F. Bennett has introduced a bill in the senate to allow Korean veterans to interrupt their schooling under the G. I. Bill of Rights for missionary service.

At present, under the Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1952, Korean vets must begin their training within two years of their discharge or within two years from August 20, 1954, which ever is later. Also, under the present law, they must complete training within seven years of their discharge date and can not leave school for more than a year.

This has made it impossible for Korean veterans to accept missionary calls from the church and since the church has not been calling men of military age until they have completed active military service, the missionary force of the church has diminished.

Under the proposed law, co-sponsored by Rep. Arthur W. Watkins (R. Utah) veterans would have their training privileges extended 36 months.

Bookstore Slates Open for March 1

The student service center is expected to be completed by March 1 if present plans meet with success.

Costing nearly one-half million, the student service center is under the management of architect Fred Marshman and contractors Tolboe and Harlan Construction company.

The service center will accommodate a self-service bookstore with text books in the basement and also the post office, Audio Visual Aids, extension division, housing and rent office, placement bureau, student coordinator's office, purchasing and receiving office, Journalism department office of the student organizations and offices for the UNIVERSE, Banyan and Wye magazine.

Learn To Pray Is Admonition Of Pres. Young

"It is wise in youth to keep your channels open. Often as you go about on the campus, just stop and say, 'Our Father who art in heaven.' This was the counsel of President S. Dilworth Young in devotional Wednesday.

President Young explained, "Many things have been written about prayer, but often because of their beauty we become confused about them." The reason for this, he said, was that, "You pray according to your knowledge of the truth, and if you don't know the truth you can't pray truthfully."

President Young further emphasized, "Be sure you ask in righteousness. You'll get answers, personally and privately to things you ask for in righteousness." The real purpose of prayer," he said, "is to give thanks to the living God, and to ask favors of Him."

Counseling specifically how one should pray, President Young stated, "The time has come for everyone of us to quit talking to the Lord as, 'God!' Rather we should say, 'Our Father who art in Heaven.' He also pointed out about our prayers, "If you have already decided on what you are to do, don't ask."

How are you to receive and answer? President Young stated, "All you have to have is a feeling down deep in yourself that He is your Father and that He hears your prayers."

Oveson Is Named Tuesday Editor; Rankers Withdraws

Richard Oveson, Pendleton, Ore., has been named UNIVERSITY editor to replace Margaret Rankers, Salt Lake City, who has withdrawn from school. Rankers, chief editor-in-chief, announced today.

Mr. Oveson, former assistant editor, has considerable journalistic experience in both high school and college publications. Editor of the Merry high school paper, Mr. Oveson also attended Oregon State College where he worked on the editorial staff of the "Beamer." He will continue to report legislative and ACAA news along with his new duties on the campus newspaper. Arthur Hardy, Sacramento, Calif., has also been added as a regular columnist along with his job as assistant Tuesday editor, according to Mr. Jack

Aptitude-Temperament ... Advertising Exam Scheduled At University of Utah Campus

Students interested in a career in advertising will have an opportunity to learn their aptitude in that field by taking the American Association of Advertising Agencies' "Examining Aptitude in Advertising," to be given at the University of Utah Feb. 14 and 21.

The examination is being sponsored by the R. T. Harris Advertising Agency and the Salt Lake County Chamber of Commerce. R. T. Harris, president of R. T. Harris and chairman of the A.A.A.A. examination committee, stated that the tests will be open to all students not now employed in an advertising agency.

"The examination is given by ACAA chapters throughout the country each year to attract high caliber young people to advertising by offering to test them for specific kinds of work in the industry," Mr. Harris said. "It provides a series of aptitude-temperament tests compiled by specialists

Tests results will be returned to each candidate. For those who do well, test results will be valuable to show prospective employers a concrete indication of the individual's potentialities. Also, if the candidate wishes, he may authorize the American Association of Advertising Agencies to circulate his test scores among employers in the intermountain area, according to Mr. Harris.

During the six years that the examination has been offered the A.A.A.A. has carefully followed the careers of successful students. They have found that more than 50 per cent of those who did well on the examination are now employed in the advertising business and most of them show above average progress in their work.

Applications to take the examination must be received by R. T. Harris by Feb. 2. Applications and further information may be received from R. T. Harris Advertising Agency, Walker Bank Building, Salt Lake City. There is a fee of $5 to cover cost of preparation and grading of the examination. In most cities this fee is $20, but because they have all interested students will be able to take the examination the R. T. Harris Agency and the advertising club are paying $15 of the fee for each candidate.

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY

BASKETBALL TURNABOUT

Most of the students at Brigham Young University this year have never had the experience of standing in a line for 12 hours to secure a basketball ticket. And only a small percentage of the student body have even managed themselves into the famed Springfield "creekbeds." Those experiences went hand in hand with the days when a student was lucky to see two or three basketball games during the season.

Times have changed. And with that change has come a lack of appreciation for that lot of postcard that admits one to the special new fieldhouse.

Last weekend 1400 student body tickets were picked up for the Wyoming game that was not used. Enough die hard fans were at the tickets were picked up and not used. Enough die hard fans were at the Saturday night to fill in the gap, but over 1000 seats were wasted.

Eddie Kimball, director of athletics, estimated that the school lost $2500 because of the unused student tickets. So what, though, a student that didn't use his ticket. There might be some student on campus who take that attitude towards what's been said, but we've got a little different angle on the situation. Sometimes they call it personal integrity, but no matter what name it might go under, it has reference to being a "square shooter" on things like this.

There are a lot of schools where students have to pay extra for reserved seats. And there are places where it's necessary to stand in line before the game in order to get in. Not so at Brigham Young. Here, every student and member of the faculty is guaranteed a ticket to the ball game if he takes the time to go pick it up. It's evident, though, that there are enough "undependables" to run a good system.

The memories of cold vigils in a ticket line and lack of breathing space in the Springfield gym are still too close to make us want to ruin our ticket privileges in the fieldhouse. Let's either use those tickets or turn them back in.

Matter of Sweating ...

Dear Editor:

Is the custodian of the Heber J. Grant library trying to sweat out a cold, or is he trying to sweat out some students. I realize that this library is usually crowded, but is it necessary to keep the temperature at 110° to keep the crowd down?

The fuel used to maintain this heat could be saved, and the expenses of the school could be cut.

If there is enough fuel at this school to waste, give some to me. I will send it to my "freezin'" brother in Alaska.

Unravels Tattered Rag ...

Dear Editor:

I don't wish to unravel your tattered rag. On the contrary, there are at least two loose ends that need mending:

(1) The dictates of press deadlines, and space or some such thing no doubt influenced the incomplete portrayal of the WYU magazine's purpose, as interpreted in good faith by the author of the review in your January 22 edition. Let me add that if the best student writing submitted isn't considered worthy of publication at student body expense, the space will be used by either photography art, or worthwhile writing obtained by special request. Also, the staff is conscious of the right and duty to flavor the magazine with a style and a taste of its own. Finally, let me not reiterate that writing talent on the campus can't be fairly compared with the contents of the student magazine when the masterpieces are not exposed to WYU editors.

(2) In spite of the rewritten announcement in Tuesday's UNIVERSITY, the J. M. Jensen story contest is open to men only. With fading hope, but with faith in your determination to become perfect, my remains remain.

Coeds' Wear Is Defined By Librarians

Slacks, shorts, levis and evening dresses are not appropriate for women students' library wear, according to a report by library officials given to the IOC last Monday night.

Olene Smith, ASBYU first vice president, reported that library officials are anxious to have uniform heads inform their organizations that library facilities are available for study and not for social activities.

In the mimeographed report, library officials also suggested that students speak quietly, avoid unnecessary conversation, and that women students dress appropriately.

Frank Daly, Intercollegiate Knight president, was chosen vice president of IOC as the campus organization heads met in the bi-weekly session.

Mr. Daly, a native of Pangulth, was chosen to fill the vacancy left by Leonard Dugger, who is not a regular student at the Y this quarter.

Andy Douglass, Banyan business manager, clarified the Banyan shirt and organization discounts. Mr. Douglass pointed out that while all organizations with 100 per cent member participation in Banyan purchases will receive a substantial discount, organizations will not be permitted to buy Banyans for their members in order to obtain the discount.

In other business the council moved to place the honorary report into procedures and controls by a unanimous vote, and also approved the service organization's report for vote at the next meeting.

In the last item of business, chairman Boyd Lake appointed a committee of Bob Davis, Salt Lake City; Carl Oederholm, Brigham City; and Bob Gunnell of Soda Springs, Ida., to investigate student violations of room privileges on campus. The committee will recommend action to be taken by IOC's penal court, and will also recommend penalties for violations.

World Today ...

From Confusion to Cabinet

by Arthur Hardy

Times change. And even better, opinions change.

Who would have thought 100 or even 50 years ago, that an Apostle of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints ("Mormon") to most people would sit in the cabinet of a President of the United States? Who would have thought that this same churchman would lead the President and his cabinet in prayer?

Why this should have been astounding and unthinkable to recent generations of Americans may be hard for some to understand. Yet even today, one has only to glance at some anti-Mormon literature to learn the type of opinion that used to be prevalent in the national press. Mormons were murderers, adulterers, and in general, evildoers of great skill; the church taught immorality, dishonesty, and sent missionaries throughout the world in search of young women to increase Mormon households.

Yes, the thought of a Mormon leader in high government circles would have shocked the misinformed mind of the last century. But leaving the field of doctrinaire literature, and moving into the political issues of those days, we find that "the Mormon problem" was a challenging question for politicians to answer. Stephen A. Douglas (who knew better) succumbed to popular clamor and said that the Mormon cancer should be cut out of the body politic.

During Lincoln's candidacy for the presidency, a cartoon was circulated that ridiculed Lincoln unmercifully; and what was the most biting slur the cartoonist could think of? The idea that the country might as well have the Mormons in office as Lincoln. It wasn't necessary to explain what the Mormons would do to the country.

In later years, after Utah had been admitted as a state, and members of the church were elected to Congress, D. H. Roberts was refused his seat in the House of Representatives; he had more than one wife. Reed Smoot, elected to the Senate, had great difficulty in gaining his rightful seat merely because he was a member of the Church.

Yes, times have changed, but Mormons haven't. They continue to advocate righteousness, whatever the opinion of the world may be or may have been. Except for the elimination of plural marriage to conform with the adjudged constitutional law of the land, the church maintains its original position.

And in our day, when Ezra Taft Benson remonstrated with President Eisenhower that he was not the man for Secretary of Agriculture because he is a clerkman, the President replied that he wanted spiritual values to govern his administration.

And so we can be justly proud that the Church is being recognized for its worth by the leaders of our country, and that these leaders are selecting from the Church men and women of ability to help govern the country.

We can be even more humble to know that Elder Ezra Taft Benson of the Council of the Twelve, said the following prayer at the last formal meeting of President Eisenhower's cabinet: "Our Honored and Eternal Heavenly Father, in deep humility and gratitude we approach thy holy throne in prayer. . . ."

"We are deeply grateful for this glorious land in which we live. We know it is a land chosen above all others. We thank thee, our Father in heaven. We thank thee for liberty—for our free agency, our way of life, and our free institutions. . . ."

"We acknowledge gratefully the unselfish service of those who have preceded us, especially the founding fathers of this nation. . . ."

"Our Heavenly Father, bless richly, we pray, Thy son and servant who has been chosen by the sovereign people of this great nation to serve at their Chief Executive. Our Father, bless Thou him and all of us with a deep spirit of humility and devotion. We know that without Thy Divine help we cannot succeed. . . ."

"We ascribe to Thee the praise, the honor, and the glory for all we have achieved or may accomplish. Graciously deign to direct our lives unto Thee and to Thy service; guide and direct us in our deliberations today, and always help us to serve with an eye single to Thy glory. . . ."

The first Cesta Tie rush party was held Saturday and featured a fashion show of spring wear.

CAMI LOGS

Dawn Riggs was chairman of the snow sculpture. Cami Log's first rush party was held last Thursday. The last one will be held tonight at the J.S. Banquet Hall. It will be heels and hose. All girls are cordially invited to attend.

ARCHAEOLOGY

There will be an open meeting of the campus chapter of the University Archaeological Society Tuesday at 4:10 p.m. in 203 Physical Science building. The meeting will be a discussion of questions submitted by the Archaeology 11 class and society members on the fields of general, book of Mormon, and New Zealand archaeology. Dr. M. Wells Jakeman and Ross T. Christensen of the archaeology department will be the panel of experts. There will be an open question period after the panel discussion. All interested are urged to attend and take part.

VAL NORN

Val Norn will hold a business meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. at the home of Joyce Brookbank, 30 West 3 North. Saturday two rush parties were held under the direction of Geraldine Seale and Marilyn Monev.

LDS PHI

Monday's rush party was an exchange with Delta chapter held at Manava Ward recreation hall. Dancing, mixers, and games occupied most of the evening. A short program of musical numbers and skits was presented, and refreshments were served. Beta Erickson, Bernard Engle, and Dorothy Bartels were in charge of the arrangements.

A toboggan party (if enough snow can be found) is planned for next Monday with Gamma chapter. Claire Palmer is Phi's chairman, Brooke Temple will be chairman of the coming exchange with Alpha chapter. Marian Workman will represent Phi on the general committee for the orphans' party, and Dorothy Bartels will be the chapter representative on the Lambda Delta Sigma Talent Night committee.

TO KALON

The Tausig and Tok assembly will be Friday. Chairman of the event is Derisys Rowe. A successful second rush party "Treasure of To Kalon" was held Monday night at Keeley's. Formal pledging will take place Friday night from 6:30 p.m.

TAUSIG

Goating activities began this week under the direction of Dick Miller. After the game Friday, curb service for all Tausigs alumni and dates will take place in the upper North parking lot. Merrill Bradshaw is formulating plans for the invitational.

BRAZILIAN CLUB

Trips O Santos—Monday at 7 p.m. The meeting this time will be short, but there is a well planned program and loads of fun for all who attend.

WILL SHE ACCEPT?—LaVon Brown, Miss Utah for 1953, gets a number of proposals from some very eager Delta Phi goats. This illustrates what the campus will be in for during the next few weeks as most BYU social units start goating activities.

Bibliophilic Romance Uncovered In University's Literary Center

by Betty Ann Green

Romance lurks in far away corners of our campus. Unpublicized and unheralded, it spreads its influence in places "measureless to man." Let me explain.

I had been table hopping in the library, getting my socializing done. My neck was getting tired from turning every time someone came into the study hall so I decided to break down and study.

Now, I have always been fascinated by the shelves of books lining the reading room. Volume IV of "Birdlayers Annual Report" is just the right size to balance on the head for perfect posture (Take it home, as I don't advise trying this in the library), and I pressed my first orchid in "Plums of New York State." Another little tiny number called "Breckenbach's Guide to Duty Hunting in the Arctic" is just right to hide some purple novel from a prof.

I was half way through the first volume when cryptic little notes caught my eye. Could it be that some imprisoned soul had penned his last on the margins of this weighty tome?

I read farther. "Arctophila, Diages with your opinions regarding 'Scienstein's Cingula. Further discussion necessary.' Frantically thumbing through Vol. 2 I found the answer. "Cassiopeia. Meet me at noon to discuss matters."

Volume 3 was an epic. "Arbutothnot. Greatly interested your views concerning myriapodes. Do you suppose you could help me on chapter 4? You know it so well and I am anxious to hear more." Coy wasn't she? He must have fallen, for the next entry goes like this: "Dear Cassiopeia, will be over tonight. Could you make some more brownies?"

Volumes 5 and 6 had more of the same. Then in 7 and 8 not a line from Cassiopeia. Emotionless pleas from Arbutothnot covered page after page.

I was breathless. Seems some Joe had a new idea on centipodes and Cassiopeia had gone over to the enemy. The set had run out. I spent a week going through those shelves trying to find the rest of the story.

Six sets of encyclopedias, the World Almanac and a 24-volume set of "Scienstein Made Easy" all met my bloodshot eyes. I even hopelessly searched the Reader's Guide. I cut classes and ate K rations. I was in the library so much they asked me to pay rent.

But patience was rewarded. In a dusty set of "Mating Habits of the Egyptian Beetle" I found this: "Cassia, you were right. May I come over?" And further: "Notty, come over tonight and bring your drawings."

Together at last. Wiping a few tears that were making puddles in the dust, I reverently placed the book back into obscurity. Even in such uninspired surroundings romance had penetrated. I tipped totally out.

JAPANESE CLUB

All interested in Japanese culture are invited to attend the first meeting of the newly organized Japanese club to be held tonight in 255 P.S. at 7:30. A short film on Japan will be shown.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB

All sociology majors are invited to an important meeting Monday at 7 p.m. in 250 Smith building.

Newsman Rate BYU Fifteenth

After a weekend of fired up basketball, the Brigham Young University Cougars were tabbed as the 15th best team in the nation by the United Press' board of experts.

The Cats were the only intermountain quintet to receive a rating from the U.P. According to the United Press, undefeated Seton Hall, with 19 straight wins, is the best team in the country, Indiana of the Big Ten, and Washington of the Pacific Coast conference are the second and third team, respectively.

Individual statistics for the Skyline hoop chase show that Chuck Davis of Montana is leading the individual scorers with a 19.3 average after four games. Tucker, Utah State, and Sharp, Wyoming, are close behind with 19 and 18 point averages, respectively.

BYU's Nick Mateljan is sixth in conference scoring, dunking an average of 15.3 points in six contests. Joe Richey with a 12.6 average and Dean Larsen, who has been hitting for an 11.7 average, are also among the top 15 scorers in the league.

As a team, the Brighams are the best defensive unit in Skyline

Sponsors, Booglers Billed for Halftime At Cage Contests

Additional spice will be sprinkled on BYU's pair of basketball games this weekend in the form of a top preliminary game and snappy halftime activities.

An announcement by Brigham Young University's halftime committee listed the events for the Montana and Utah State games.

Halftime activities for Friday night's Montana tilt will feature the university's ROTC Sponsor Corp. the Y's crack marching unit. It will be the first major appearance of the sponsor corp at a basketball game.

Saturday night's game will be preceded by a preliminary scrap between the Utah State frosh and the Y Kittens. Coach Bob Bunker's young cagers were belted at Logan in a previous encounter this season.

Halftime feature of the USAC-BYU game will be presented by the Boogler Commitee, the bonafide hill billy group that won the plaudits of Y fans a few games ago.

All halftime activities are planned by an 11-man committee, headed by Dr. Royden Brathwaite, the university's student coordinator.

Eight play, and one of the top defenders in the nation. An average of only 53.7 points per game have been slipped through the net against Stan Watts' boys.

Y Frosh Cagers Out For Win Over Farmers

The Cougar Kittens, who won two games last Friday and Saturday night, will meet the Utah State frosh Saturday night before the varsity game.

The last meeting of these two frosh teams resulted in a sound setback for the Kittens, and they are hoping for better luck this time.

Coach Bob Bunker feels that his charges have improved since their last showing and are going to be ready for the AC frosh. Through numerous switches and cuts, this frosh team has emerged permanently: Elaine Anderson, Sandy, Dave Crowton, Orem, Frank Hicks, Reno, Nev.; Willard Hirsch, Rockville, Dave Lewis, Provo; Phil Oyster, Brigham City; Mack Madsen, Boise, Ida.; Ed Pinger, Provo; Lloyd Rasmussen, Moore, Royal Shipp, Joseph; Doug Smoot, Springfield; Terry Telbo, Cowley, Wyo.; Bill Tye, Los Angeles, Calif.; and Dee Wilcox, Provo.

Chuck Crosby, one of Coach Bunker's centers, hurt his knee in practice and will not be able to play this season.

Woodward Wins; Sets Provo Fight

Boxing scalp No. 7 was added to Chuck Woodward's belt Tuesday night when the young Brigham Young University heavy weight pounded out a unanimous ten round decision over Willy McCoy of California in Salt Lake City.

Woodward, who says that he's fighting only to put himself through school, has run up 28 straight victories in his professional career. Tuesday's fight with McCoy was supposed to be a toughie, but Woodward took care of the Californian in fairly good style.

To date all of Woodward's fights have been in Salt Lake but it was announced that he would make an appearance in the Provo Arena on Feb. 6.

Y MATMEN FACE REDSKINS FRIDAY

The Brigham Young University wrestling team will meet the University of Utah in Salt Lake City on Friday at 3:30 p.m.

Those on Coach Nielsen's team who will make the journey will be: Arnold Wilson, Robert Buck, Phil Rollins, Benny Jordan, Paul Ashton, Karl Adams, Glen Hale, and John Robinson.

"We hope to take Utah. We will give it all we have," said coach Nielsen.

TERRIFIC TUMBLERS—Receiving awards from Neal Gibby after gymnasium exhibitions are Bill Scott, Reed Wright, Brent Heninger, Bunky Arnold, Mel Gordon, Dick Andrews.

BYU Constitutional Revisions Approved In Student Vote

ASBYU constitutional changes proposed last month by the Executive Council were approved by studentbody balloting, according to LeRoy Porter, ASBYU president.

Figures released this week indicate approximately 50 per cent of the studentbody favored the proposed amendments. There were no figures released as to dissenting votes, or to total votes cast.

In accordance with BYU constitutional ruling, the UNIVERSE herewith publishes the amendments. Bold face sections indicate changed or added portions of the constitution.

To make the editor of the WYE magazine a member of the legislative council.

Amend Article III Section 1, A-1-3 to read:

"The editor and business manager of the newspaper and the publisher, and the editor of the student magazine."

To give representation to all religious units and student organizations in the Legislative Council.

Revise Article III Section 1, A-1-3 to read:

"One representative each from the inter-collegiate unit, the religious organizations, the honorary organizations, the service organizations, the governmental organizations and the student organizations."

(a) To eliminate the student president of the University and from the Legislative Council membership in the band will be included in the musical organization represented in the student body.

(b) To give the ASBYU representative by making a member of the Executive Council a member of the Legislative Council.

Revise Article III Section 1, A-4 to read:

"The chairman of the Student Progress Bureau, the Executive Manager, the YMC host, a student representative of the Honor Council, and of ASBYU, the inter-collegiate unit, the religious organizations, the service organizations, the governmental organizations, the student organizations, and the ASBYU Cabinet Council."

To add a clause which will encourage Legislative Council members to become acquainted with the ASBYU
